FUTILE ATTEMPT TO STOP MARRIAGE. Irate Parent Appeals to Police, but Young People Wed.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Baltimore, Md., October 18.—While an irate father at St. Elmo, Va., telephoned, telegraphed and wrote to the police of Baltimore and Washington for assistance, A. Howard Engelking and Miss Rhoda Louise Anderson, of St. Elmo, slipped out to Elliott City, the Gretna Green of Maryland, and were married by Rev. R. F. Wagner, pastor of the English Lutheran Church, of that place.

The couple left St. Elmo Sunday night, after the young man had been met at the door of Miss Anderson's house by her father, who torbade him making his usual Sunday night call. But young love refused to be thwarted, and Engelking "hung around seeking an opportunity to get a note to his fair charmer. He was finally successful, and obeying the contents of the note, she slipped away from the house, and meeting her lover, fled with him to the nearest station, where they took the train for Washington.

Arriving there yesterday morning, they found that Miss Anderson's father had already wired the police of that city to prevent a marriage, and was even at the time of their arrival in communication with the chief of Police over the telephone, appealing to him to stop the wedding.

They did not tarry long in the capital city, but hurried to Baltimore, where, to the dismay, they found that the police had been also notified. Helplessly they wandered about the city until a friend told them of the advantages Elliott City offered lovers couples. Early this morning they fled themselves to that place, and Rev. Mr. Wagner did the rest.

The young bride and groom are undecided whether to return to St. Elmo. They went to Washington this afternoon, there to spend their honeymoon.

PREPARING FOR BIG FAIR

Visitors From Massachusetts to Select Site for Monument.

Times-Dispatch Bureau, 109 North Sycamore Street, Petersburg, Va., October 18.

At the meeting of A. P. Hill Camp last night it was decided not to go to Norfolk as a camp to take part in the great parade of veterans. It is understood, however, that members of the camp outside of the regularly appointed delegates will go down to Norfolk to join in the parade.

The camp, however, voted to accept the invitation of Greensville Chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy, to take part in the ceremonies of the unveiling of the monument to the Confederate dead of that county at Emporia on November 3. A full description of this handsome monument has been published in The Times-Dispatch.

The Petersburg Fair. The double floors of the two big tobacco warehouses on Friend and Market Streets are being arranged for the Southside Agricultural Fair to be held here next week. These warehouses furnish a large and admirably protected space for the exhibits, including fine facilities for stock. This arrangement is only for the present year, the plan of the association being to own its own grounds and buildings next year.

There are twelve counties whose exhibits will be shown at next week's fair, and the indications are that the exhibition will be a very full and satisfactory one in all of its departments, especially in corn, tobacco, peanuts and hay, the staple crops of this section.

The good housewives will have opportunity to show evidences of their skill, and the farmers will abundantly prove by their exhibits the wonderful possibilities of the Southside.
